

My Recommendation of Mr. Michael Leon

To Whom It May Concern,

Michael is a creative and consistent designer. Both of those traits are supported by his true passion for his work. Michael is the type of person who meticulously develops his work never cutting a corner for the sake of saving time. He puts as much of his heart and effort into the smaller production type of jobs as he does with the larger square-one brand development type of work.

While I was working with him I watched him transform a tired, outdated brand into something more relevant and lively. Later on I saw him really bring to life and enhance some of newer brands. He truly has a well-rounded skill set to match his relentless passion.
